The church in Richmond, Mass., to which Mr. Perry was called after the close of his labors in Harwinton was formed in 1765, Rev. Job Smith, a graduate of Yale College, was the first pastor. Mr. Perry was installed August 25, 1784. In this new position he was not only well pleased but he pleased the people. The number of church members was increased from thirty-one at his installation by the addition of two hundred and twenty-nine during his ministry.

His long service was brought to a close through ill health, which so impaired his ability to minister to his people that he was dismissed January 1, 1816.

Mr. Perry died the following year, June 7, 1817. The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Alvan Hyde of Lee, Mass. The sermon was subsequently printed

Mr. Perry married, August 20, 1776, Jerusha Lord of Middletown, Conn. daughter of Ichabod Lord of Colchester. They had ten children, seven sons and three daughters. Three of their sons graduated at Williams College. Mrs. Perry died at the home of her son at Lee, July 13, 1832.

It has been said: "the religious character of Mr. Perry was such as to furnish a bright example to every gospel minister. He was eminent for his expressions and daily exhibitions of piety and eminently devoted and faithful as a minister of Christ."

REV. DAVID PERRY.

Rev. David Perry, who was installed minister of the church at Richmond, Mass. August 25, 1784, was born in what is now Huntington in Stratford, Conn. July 19, 1746. He was the son of a farmer, Joshua Perry. His mother, Mary Leavenworth, was the daughter of Dr. Thomas Leavenworth. David Perry entered Yale College and graduated from that institution in 1772.

He studied theology with his uncle, Rev. Mark Leavenworth of Waterbury, and it is believed he was also a pupil of Rev. Joseph Bellemy, the eminent theologian.

He was licensed to preach by the New Haven County Association, May 25, 1772. The church at Harwinton Conn. having dismissed its minister, the Rev. Andrew Bartholomew, the society voted September 7, 1773, "a committee shall apply to Rev. David Perry to preach with them the winter coming." On the 21, the action was renewed and on October 11, the society voted "to settle Mr. Perry in the work of the ministry."

Mr. Perry accepted the call and was ordained February 15, 1774. Mr. Bartholomew, the former pastor was in favor of the half-way covenant which he strenuously defended. It was understood Mr. Perry would baptise the children of the covenant-owners, but the time came when he could not conscientiously apply the baptismal ordinance to the infant offspring of non-communicants, and he told them so, this led to his dimmission—with the advice of other churches December 23, 1783.

PREFACE.

Pleasantly situated in a charming valley among the Berkshire hills of Western Massachusetts is the town of Richmond, named from the Duke of Richmond, it is supposed, when incorporated, June 20, 1763. as the town of Richmont, afterwards changed to Richmond. The settlers soon built a meeting-house and raised money to pay a minister. The name of the first preacher is unknown, so it is stated. His successor was Rev. Job Swift who became their pastor in 1767. He was followed by Rev. David Perry in 1784. A sketch of Mr. Perry will be found on another page, also the names of the tax-payers and the amount of the tax necessary to pay the pastor's salary.

As every property holder was taxed we have the names of the heads of families living in Richmond in the year 1788.

The records on the following pages are printed from the original documents in the compilers possession. It is hoped they may be of some interest to local historians and genealogists.

Acknowledgment is herewith made for the sketch of Rev. David Perry to the "Biographies and Annals of Yale College." "History of Harwinton. Conn.," and "History of Western Massachusetts."
